VANESSA WONG - GA

Vanessa Wong joined the P4 team in October 2006. Prior to this Vanessa was a LEME PhD student (re-submitting her thesis today!). Despite her short tenure with P4, Vanessa has made significant impact through her work on the RMC project. In particular, Vanessa's skills in soils science have been of great import in producing the new set of surface maps and reports for the RMC project. These maps of surface materials properties, landforms, vegetation associations etc, have excited considerable influence with a broad client base, even in their draft form. Vanessa is a dynamic, enthusiastic, and bubbly personality, who has lifted the team spirit considerably. Vanessa is also a prolific worker, and her output rate is matched by high quality science writing. Vanessa has managed to balance her output delivery with completion of her thesis, and I look forward to seeing both her PhD material and her RMC outputs in the scientific press.
